Bethel tax rate holds steady

First payment due Nov. 30

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Bethel's tax rate has held steady for the fourth year in a row. The town's Board of Assessors last week set the fiscal year 1995 tax rate at $14.75 per thousand dollars of assessed valuation.

Bethel's FY-95 budget ($2,569,827.50) is up approximately $180,000 from the previous year's spending total, but the town has also gained nearly $3 million in valuation over the past year, according to Town Clerk Merton Brown.

Most of that increased valuation came from residential construction, Brown said.

The town has yet to gain any real estate valuation from the Bethel Station project, but Sunday River's new ski tram has contributed $300,000 in personal property valuation, Brown said.

Due day pushed back

This year's tax bills went out Tuesday, almost a month later than last year's bills. Town Manager Madeleine Henley attributed the delay largely to the fact that the Town Office staff has been busy processing tax liens from earlier years.

Because the bills went out later than in the past, the due date for the first payment has been extended from Nov. 15 to Nov. 30.

Henley said the later due date is not expected to have any significant effect on the town's cash flow.

STICK 'EM UP, VLAD--Posse leaders Jason Thayer (left) and Stephanie Tripp ran down Count Dracula, Justin Kenniston, Monday at a Woodstock Elementary School Halloween party. There were plenty of local costumed kids stalking local streets on Halloween. All three SAD44 elementary schools held parades. The halls of the Crescent Park School were gammed with hundreds of trick-or-treaters, and at Greenwood's "haunted" Town Hall, ghoulish adults gave little goblins a scare. (Photo by Wendy Hanscom)

Visiting volunteers can make all the difference

Androscoggin Home Health Services is looking for volunteers who have a few hours a week to spend helping out around the house or visiting with one of their elderly patients.

AHHS would like volunteers who can spend twenty hours a week with homebound patients.

Duties could include something as simple as chatting over a cup of coffee, or helping a bit with household chores and running errands.

In return the volunteers receive a small hourly stipend, travel allowance and ongoing training.

"Volunteering provides you with an opportunity to use your skills, gives additional purpose to your life as well as a sense of satisfaction, and increases your self-esteem," said Shirley Powell, AHHS community relations manager.

"The good feeling you get when helping someone else releases a chemical in your body which seems to improve your immune system and makes you feel more alive, giving you a greater sense of well-being."

There are currently two senior companions working in the Bethel area, Powell said.

Retired minister Roland Lord of Bryant Pond is one of them. Lord visits weekly with George Reed of Albany. They both say the visits are a big boost.

"Life is a lot better with Roland visiting me," said Reed, who suffers from a multitude of health problems. He has been a patient of AHHS for nearly 10 years. He still has his driver's license, but cannot afford car expenses, so he needs help running errands.

Without any family nearby, Reed had become increasingly isolated in his home of 20 years.

"It's a wonderful thing for me," Reed said. "It's been tough going these last two or three years. I'm not so concerned about winter this

Bancorp. buys four Key Bank branch offices

Bethel Bancorp has completed its purchase of Key Bank branch offices in Richmond, Lisbon Falls, Mechanic Falls and Buckfield.

Bank regulatory approvals for the branch acquisition were received by Bethel Bancorp banks in August, and final transfers occurred as of close of business on Oct. 28.

Commenting on the acquisition, Jim Delamater, president and CEO of Bethel Bancorp, expressed his pleasure at how well both banks had worked together over the summer to effect a smooth transition for the customers at each of the branch locations. Delamater said, "Bethel Bancorp is very excited at this opportunity to become a member of the business communities in each of the new branch locations. We look forward to providing community bank services to our new clients."

Bethel Bancorp, with total assets of $225 million, is headquartered in Portland and owns Brunswick Federal Savings, F.A., Bethel Savings Bank, F.S.B. and ASI Data Services, Inc.

Cast your ballot Tuesday

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Election Day is Tuesday, Nov. 8. In addition to casting their ballots for U.S. senator, U.S. representatives and for the governor of Maine, local voters will also elect representative to the Maine Legislature and a number of Oxford County offices.

The lines of legislative districts in Maine were redrawn last year, based on the numbers generated by the 1990 census. As a result, this year's election finds some incumbents facing each other in redrawn districts.

Maine Senate

There are two major Senate districts in The Citizen's circulation area. In District 24 (Bethel, Newry, Greenwood, Woodstock, Andover, Upton, and many other northern Oxford County towns) Eugene J. Boivin (D-Rumford) is battling Norman K. Ferguson (R-Hanover).

In Senate District 25, which includes West Paris, incumbent Senator Dana Hanley (R-South Paris) is facing off against former Sen. R. Donald Twitchell (D-Norway).

Maine House

Most SAD44 towns lie in Maine House District 65, where incumbent Al Barth (R-Bethel) is running unopposed.

In House District 70, which includes Woodstock, Robert Cameron (R-Rumford) faces Phyllis R. Erwin

Local loggers balk at latest OSHA regs

By WENDY HANSCOM

By February the nation's most dangerous industry will have some new, stricter safety regulations.

New Occupational Safety and Health Administration's new standards will prohibit loggers from working in heavy rain or snow or severe cold.

And whatever the weather, loggers must wear employer-provided safety gear, and they must be supplied -- again, by the employer -- with CPR training and first aid kits.

OSHA officials say the safety standards will save about 100 lives a year, but local woodsmen worry that some of the new rules are unnecessary and will hurt the bottom line.

Logging industry fatality rates are eight times greater than in mining, the next closest industrial category, and woods fatalities are 53 times greater than the manufacturing sector as a whole. Almost half the logging injuries are due to employees being hit or crushed by falling trees.

Weather worries

Local loggers say safety is always on their minds, but they are very critical of OSHA mandating what weather conditions they could work in.

Tim Gammell of the American

Pulpwood Association in Augusta said OSHA has not dictated exactly what conditions they don't want loggers to work in.

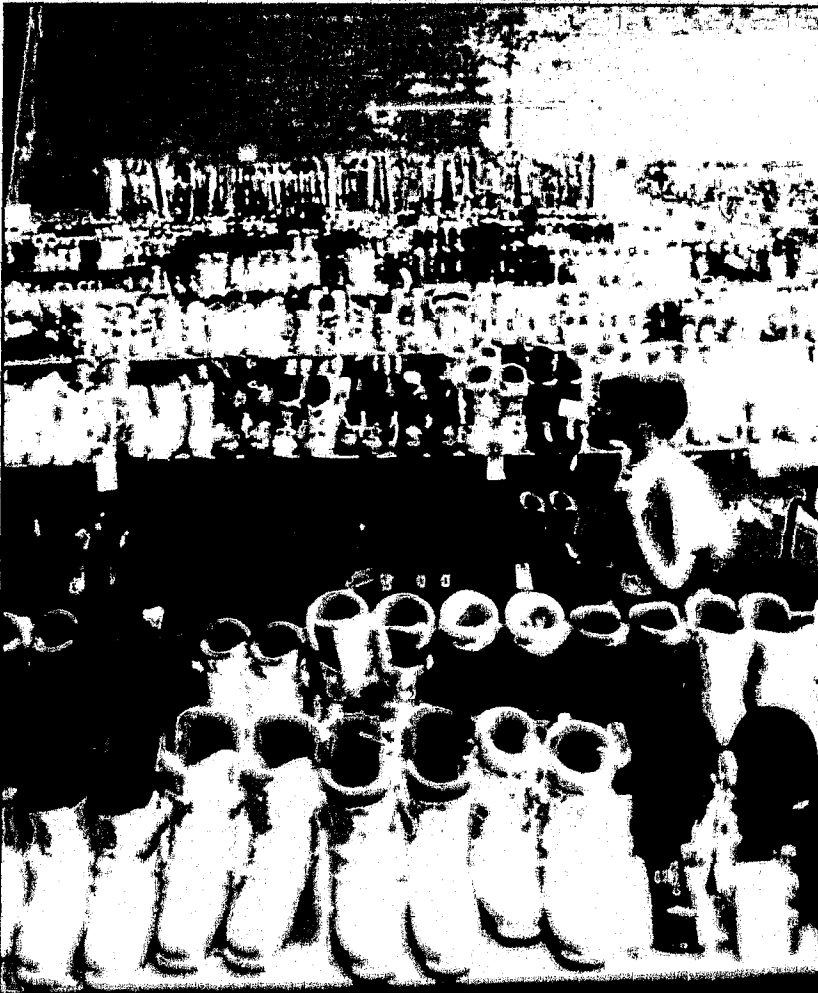

The old mandate identified electrical storms and high winds as examples of hazardous conditions, while the new rules include heavy rain or snow, extreme cold, dense fog, fires, mud slides and darkness.

'We should have sense enough to know if we should be there or not.'

DANNY LONG
East Bethel

"I'll probably do some investigation to see if they've made any ruling on that," Gammell said. "But as far as I'm concerned it's open to interpretation between OSHA and the loggers."

THIS WEEK AT THE
Moses Mason House

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that the next monthly meeting will be held on Thursday, Nov. 3, in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House, 7:30 p.m. The program will feature a slide presentation on the history of the Richardson Lakes region of Maine, presented by Randall H. Bennett, curator of collections at the Bethel Historical Society.

Bennett is editing a history of the lakes, which is expected to be published by the society in 1995.

Anyone interested in attending the meeting is cordially invited to do so.

Society Director Stanley R. Howe's review of "The Atlantic Provinces in Confederation," edited by E.R. Forbes and D.A. Muise and published by the University of Toronto Press, appears in the most recent issue of "The American Review of Canadian Studies."

The next issue of the society's quarterly, "The Bethel Courier," will be out soon. It will feature an article on the history of Bethel's Grover Hill by Mary C. Keniston and Randall H. Bennett. Anyone interested in receiving a complimentary issue should call the society at 207-824-2908 or write P.O. Box 12, Bethel, Me., 04217-0012.

HUNTERS REMINDED TO DOUBLE UP ON ORANGE

The Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife is reminding Maine hunters they must wear two articles of hunter orange clothing during the firearms deer season.

State law now requires two items of solid-colored hunter orange clothing be worn by anyone hunting with firearms during the regular firearms deer season and the special muzzle-loading season. One of them must be a hat, the other must cover a major portion of the torso -- a jacket, vest, coat or poncho, for example.

The law applies regardless of the species being hunted; only waterfowl hunters using a boat, blind or decoys are exempt.

The requirement of additional hunter orange clothing was enacted by the Maine legislature and in effect last year for the first time. Last year, for the first time ever, there were no hunting accidents in which the victim was mistaken for game.

The Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife encourages firearms hunters to wear hunter orange voluntarily during seasons when it is not required. Its use has been a leading contributor to a dramatic improvement in Maine's hunting accident record over the past two decades.

DOES USE LOCAL CONTRACTORS

To the Editor:

As you know, I am building a new office at the corner of Main and Railroad streets. The reason I am writing is to address some of the feedback which I have received from various people in town.

It really gives me a good chuckle when I hear some people are upset with me because I am not using local people to build my place. So let's start with the funniest of them all. My general contractor lives in West Bethel. He is not from Auburn or Portland or Boston. My excavation work is being done by Cross Excavation of Bethel. My chimney was built by White Mountain Masonry of Bethel. Henry's concrete from Harrison, who seems to do a lot of work in this area, did my foundation. Of course some work was brought in by my general contractor to do various jobs like the vinyl siding, suspended ceilings, etc.

I received several quotes from local general contractors before I made my decision on who was going to build my office. I'm sorry I didn't contact every contractor in town. Is that what's expected of people when they want to build something in town? You have to make sure you get quotes from everyone, so nobody's feelings get hurt. Well, sorry, I don't think anyone should have to do that.

It's probably the same people who complain about me not using a local contractor who go out of town for their medical/dental care, do their food shopping in Auburn, etc.

REPUBLICAN SLATE

To the Editor:

It has been a fascinating political season. George Mitchell stunned us all with his withdrawal from politics and the scramble that followed was, to say the least, an event many will never forget. While many politicians walked through the open door as opportunity knocked, many more answered their own call to work for change. I think the Republican Party can be especially proud of the quality of the candidates who have made the sacrifice to run for political office. Republicans should be proud that it was their party that was first to field two women for the top of the ticket in Susan Collins for governor and Olympia Snowe for Senate. Both are outstanding individuals and will serve us all well.

We also have a unique opportunity to send a congressman to Washington who will truly represent the people of Oxford County. Rick Bennett has already demonstrated his willingness to make sacrifices. When he lost his fight in the Maine House that would have repealed their pay raise, he donated his pay raise to charity. We need more people like him in Washington.

On the local front, Norm Ferguson is campaigning for the newly created State Senate District 24. Norm is a very active Republican who currently is a county commissioner. I would encourage all voters to help send Norm to Augusta where he can continue his tradition of protecting the interests of the citizens of Oxford County.

Most importantly, it does no one any good to stay home on election day. Your vote is your way of sending a message. If you don't vote, you shouldn't complain about the politicians. If you do vote you are making a difference, however insignificant you think it might be. So, on Nov. 8, take some time out of your busy life and help preserve the future for others who follow.

Carl Hansen

BRENNAN, ANDREWS, BALDACCI

To the Editor:

We are fortunate to have a fine group of candidates to choose from on Nov. 8. I am writing to encourage your readers to support Joe Brennan for governor, Tom Andrews for Senate and John Baldacci for Congress.

Joe Brennan has a real track record as well as new vision and enthusiasm for the job of leading our state. As governor, he was able to assemble a team distinguished for its talent and management ability. His commitment to all the citizens of Maine has been evident throughout his career. When he visited Bethel last summer, I was struck by the energy and relish with which Joe Brennan approaches this new chance to serve. I am convinced that Joe Brennan is the one candidate for Governor who can pull things together in Augusta quickly and effectively. I was glad to see that the Maine Sunday Telegram endorsed him for these reasons.

Tom Andrews also got the endorsement of the Maine Sunday Telegram, and for all the right reasons -- a vote for him is an investment in the kind of courage that we sorely need in Washington. He is not afraid to go against popular or party wisdom when the long-term interests of our state and nation are at stake. His interest in "bringing home the bacon" consists of investing in the programs and policies that will truly benefit the working people of this state and nation and our children in the long run.

John Baldacci has my support, not because of his excellent Italian cooking, but because he was willing to listen carefully to my description of our Interactive Television system and how it has benefited people in this area -- and then to admit that his knowledge of the university system had been far too narrow. He clearly is a conservative Democrat and should be an energetic and fair advocate for our Second District.

COLLINS

To the Editor:

As a sophomore at Telstar High School, and an active Republican, I would like to talk about Susan Collins. When I first met Ms. Collins in the primary election, I thought she was unqualified, and I did not agree with her stand on social issues.

But after she won, I began to think, how did she do it, why do people like her, and how will she do in the general election?

I was sure she would lose. But after talking to people and looking at her views on important issues, like education, jobs, and spending, I must say I agree with her. We need to raise the standard of education and get more parents involved in schools. We need to help small businesses. That's where we get jobs, money, and a better economy, and also we must cut spending until we get our budget balanced.

I really hope Maine voters will learn more about Susan Collins. She is a very qualified and smart candidate. She has strong convictions and will stand by them.

Justin A. Gilbert
Bethel

COLLINS

To the Editor:

I am writing in favor of Susan Collins, not necessarily because she is a woman, but because she is the only fiscal conservative running for governor this year.

She is the only candidate who is dedicated to bringing spending down, reducing taxes, and stopping the growth of state government. She possesses the energy, administrative skills, and vision to make the changes necessary to keep Maine competitive and thus more attractive for business investment.

Unlike other candidates, she is not a lawyer, but someone who has spent her working life assisting small business, the backbone of Maine's economy. She will work to make state government more responsive to the needs of Maine people, smarter, more effective, and efficient. She is a manager, able to bring a wide variety of interests together for the common good.

I believe she is uniquely qualified to be our next governor, and urge all voters to consider her outstanding qualifications to return common sense to Augusta.

Louise Lincoln
Bethel

CAMERON

To the Editor:

Rob Cameron is running for the legislative seat in District 70. I know Rob personally and he is a hardworking individual who has the ability and perseverance to get the job done.

High on Rob's list of issues to be addressed is improving the economy and creating jobs. Rob Cameron knows from his own experiences as a farmer and small business operator that it is vital to foster a climate that will enable businesses in Oxford County to grow and prosper.

Rob believes that improvements need to be made in our educational system. He will work hard to ensure that the system provides our young people with an education that will prepare them for their futures.

We need people of Rob Cameron's caliber to represent us. He is a lifelong resident of this area and he understands the needs of our rural community. He is a working person who will go to the Maine Legislature to fight for the working people of Oxford County. I urge you to cast your vote for Rob Cameron on Nov. 8.

Rev. Roland Lord
Bryant Pond

BRYANT

To the Editor:

As a Republican and taxpayer of Oxford County, and whereas, no one seems to want to question Sheriff Herrick's accomplishments since he's been sheriff, I feel that I must, in that he made changes that were long overdue. Changes that were in the best interest of the people of Oxford County. He also says that his main concern was to save tax dollars and, in fact, had saved us thousands of dollars.

True, he has made changes, but I question if the changes were in the best interest of the citizens of Oxford County or were in the best interest of himself. He increased his budget to more than $360,000 above that of Sheriff Howe. I see no improvement in the quality of the service we now receive, nor can I find where the sheriff's accomplishments have saved us any tax dollars. Not when you're talking about a 36-percent increase. I would think that he could have at least hired a few deputies (which we need) with some of that $360,000.

He claims that he is a working sheriff, being everywhere a sheriff should be. Yet I have never seen him in the four years that he's been in office, and those that have seen him, he is not wearing his uniform. The uniform that he changed, that cost us needed tax dollars.

We need a working sheriff, one who will use some common sense as to what the priorities should be when it comes to spending our tax dollars. When I look at what Sheriff Herrick has claimed to have done, I see nothing, nothing other than spending our tax dollars on himself.

When you go to vote on Nov. 8, ask yourself this question: "What has Sheriff Herrick done for me or my community since he's been in office?" If the answer is the same as mine -- nothing, then vote for Craig Bryant, for I truly believe that he will be a working sheriff, one who will proudly wear his uniform and use some common sense when it comes to spending our tax dollars.

Reginald W. Wing Sr.

NOT ANDREWS

To the Editor:

Somebody put up a large Tom Andrews for Senate sign in front of our office. I would not want for people to think our company is supporting him because we aren't. I believe his record shows he has a kneejerk reaction in support of whatever our environmental elite want. I'd like to give you two examples. The League of Private Property Voters gave him a "0" rating for his 1993-94 voting record and Reg Gilbert of West Bethel received a letter from him that indicated he believes the timber program in the White Mountain National Forest is subsidized.

We wouldn't have felt the same had someone put up a sign for Angus King, Olympia Snowe, Rick Bennett, Norm Ferguson or Al Barth.

GUIDANCE HELP APPRECIATED

To the Editor:

Falling prey to last spring's SAD44 budget cuts was a second secretary for the 6-12 guidance program at Telstar Middle/High School. It was felt that this position was needed to maintain the increased volume and quality of services the students, parents, teachers and community members have grown to depend on in recent years.

Fortunately, to keep services from being drastically cut, several caring individuals stepped forward to lend their support. We would like to publicly thank and recognize the following groups and individuals who donate one to six hours of their time each week assisting with the delivery of guidance services: Ms. Lord's Typists-R-Us class; Mrs. Claver's wordprocessing class; senior aides Elise Bennett, Lori Davis, Naomi Fox, Jill Olson and Lloyd Sweetser; junior aide Tracy Swick; sophomore aide Crystal Aylward and community volunteers Evanna Davis, Thelma Dombkowski and Nancy Grover.

We believe the number and variety of Telstar 6-12 guidance services are unequalled in the state. The general support of these fine individuals have allowed them to continue.

CHRISTMAS FOR FAMILIES

To the Editor:

As difficult as it is to believe, Christmas is nearing and we would like again like to call upon the community to help us make Christmas special for families that might not otherwise have anything for Christmas. For anyone that doesn't know, Christmas for Families is a non-profit organization that obtains names of families that need help and through donations of time, money, articles of clothing, toys, books, Christmas ornaments, food, etc., meets the needs of those families. If there is anyone who knits or crochets, we would be happy to provide the yarn to make hats, mittens, sweaters, etc., or materials for other items.

The families may be assured that their names remain anonymous. Christmas for Families tries to work with other area organizations so that there is not a duplication of items. We try to make sure that all members of the family receive something, as teenagers love Christmas as much as younger children. Forms will be going out with students from SAD44 schools this week of Nov. 1 and must be returned by Nov. 25. Please feel free to contact Nina Wheeler at 836-2365 for more information.

The American Legion Post 68 of Locke Mills will be sponsoring a benefit dinner for Christmas for Families on Sunday, Dec. 11, at 1 p.m. Please come and join us for a fun afternoon. Thank you.

Tips from the

Bethel Conservation Commission

Septic Systems--Keep them in Good Condition to Avoid Ground Water Contamination and Costly Future Repairs.

Keep heavy vehicles, large shrubs and trees away from the drain field.

Check the sludge level in your septic tank yearly and have a reputable contractor remove sludge and scum when needed--typically every three to five years.

Do not dispose of household chemicals in your toilet or sink drain; such chemicals can destroy the bacteria that help decompose sewage. Also, these chemicals eventually end up in our groundwater, streams and rivers.

Legions to host national commander

GREENWOOD--The Jackson-Silver Post 68 of Locke Mills will host a banquet Nov. 4 in honor of National Commander William M. Detweiler of New Orleans, La. The national commander annually visits Maine. His visit to the Locke Mills is in recognition of the post's community service work, according to Post Commander Earl Tyler. Detweiler will also attend a breakfast for legionnaires and their invited guests at the Mundt-Allen Post 81 in Bethel on Nov. 5. The last time a national commander came to a post in western Maine was about 20 years ago, when Rumford hosted a visit, Tyler said.

Rash of camp burglaries

RILEY TOWNSHIP--The Oxford County Sheriff's Office is investigating a string of camp burglaries here. On Saturday, Oct. 22, police received reports of burglaries at the camps of Alan Fleet, Robert Beebe, Ronald Roy, Richard Evans, Lars Lokken and James Black. The same day there was also a report of a burglary at a Barker Mountain Road home in the Sunday River Valley.

Roxbury gets new tagging station

ROXSURY--Hunters in Roxbury will not have to take their bear or deer to tagging stations in Rumford or Oquossoc. A local store, and the town's only tagging station, closed recently. But Maxine Farrar on Route 17 has received help from the Maine Warden's Service to set up a tagging station at her home. "I took on this job because I was unemployed and had lots of time on my hands," Farrar said. "There is a big commitment with this type of duty. I have to be on duty from sunup to sundown and a lot of people just don't have that availability."

MCI to appeal again

ANDOVER--A recent Superior Court decision will give MCI another chance to appeal its 1989 tax bill. Selectmen were notified recently that the court has remanded the case to the Board of Property Tax Review for another hearing. Justice Donald Alexander ruled that MCI "had not been given due process," because it took the review board three years to file its decision. A date for a new hearing has not been set.

Stolen car found in Albany pond

ALBANY--Police officers recovered a stolen car recently from the shallow water of Bruntland Pond in Albany. A bird hunter spotted the car just under the surface of the water. The car was registered to Carolyn Wormell of Naples. The 1993 Ford Thunderbird was reported stolen in Portland on Sept. 21. The windows of the car had been broken and the seats were slashed. The car was resting on top of about six feet of mud at the bottom of the pond, which is only 12 feet deep at its deepest spot.

King continues to close the gap

PORTLAND--A recent Guy Gannett Newspapers poll showed Independent Angus King trailing Democrat Joseph Brennan by five points. With a 4.4 percent margin of error, Brennan had 33 percent, King 28 percent and Republican Susan Collins with 15 percent. Green Party candidate Jonathan Carter had 2 percent. Almost 20 percent of those polled were undecided. Since the last poll in late September, the governor's race between Brennan and King has narrowed, with King gaining from 23 percent to 28 percent and Brennan dropping from 36 percent to 32 percent. In the Senate Race, Republican Rep. Olympia Snowe is hanging onto a commanding lead over Democrat Tom Andrews. The first district race appeared very close between Republican James Longley Jr. and Democrat Dennis Dufrenoy. In the 2nd District, Democrat John Baldacci had a nine-point lead over Republican Richard Bennett. The poll was based on a telephone survey of 567 likely voters statewide.

Wind turbines to be protested

FARMINGTON--Environmental groups protested a proposed Franklin County wind power project last week, claiming the erection of 639 wind turbines will destroy a wilderness mountain area. Kenetech Windpower, a California-based wind energy company, has proposed a 1,100-acre wind farm in the Boundary Mountains north of Eustis. Environmentalists say the project will degrade fragile mountain ecosystems and threaten bird populations. The National Audubon Society and Maine Sierra Club chapter also say the project does not meet the criteria of Land Use Regulation Commission approval. LURC commissioners are expected to discuss the company's application at a meeting in Bangor Nov. 17.

UFO reports still coming in LEEDS--UFO sighting reports continue to trickle in to the Androscoggin County Sheriff's Department, with the latest coming from a Leeds man who reported spotting an unusual object in the sky early Oct. 25. A Plains Road man called at about 1:40 a.m. to report a teacup-shaped, star-like object with several green lights around the bottom, according to the ACSD.

Food shelter aid to drop

WASHINGTON, D.C.--Federal assistance to Maine's food pantries and soup kitchens will drop drastically next year. Maine received $353,000 from the U.S. Department of Agriculture last year to buy food for distribution. At least 108 food pantries received funds. Next year Maine will get just $97,000, a 72.5 percent cut. The cuts won't affect the food pantry at Bethel's District Exchange, according to volunteer Maryvonne Wheeler. The pantry gets most of its money from donations and the sale of clothing at the exchange.

Fox gives pupils a scare

LEWISTON--Officials at the Montello Elementary School brought all their pupils inside Friday after a fox was reported prowling around the school grounds. The town's animal control officer was called to the school and determined the fox was healthy and not a threat to student safety -- as long as he was left alone. The fox is a frequent visitor in the surrounding neighborhood, the ACO said.

Rebirth of rail service a step closer

PORTLAND--State officials have reached a labor agreement with Maine and New Hampshire transportation firms, which may help make passenger rail service a reality in Maine. State officials need the agreement to get federal subsidy from the Federal Transit Administration. The FTA requires the state to compensate private transportation employees and businesses that may be hurt by train service. The next step toward rail service is to send out inspection crews to look at the condition of the rails and bridges, according to Maine Commissioner of Transportation Dana Connors. The repair work should take about two years, Connors said, and service may be in place as early as next fall. The tracks have carried only freight since 1965 and cannot currently accommodate high speed passenger trains that travel up to 79 mph. Improvements may cost around $50 million.

Saco wants a train station

SACO--The city of Saco is preparing plans for its train station. The town's mayor said Sunday that a two-year delay in getting the Boston-Portland Amtrak service up and running hasn't caused a two-year delay in planning for Saco's station. The city is trying to determine who owns a small strip of property abutting the town's one-acre site on Saco Island, and city officials are also discussing buying a two-acre parcel from Saco Bay Resource Recovery. City fathers are also talking to businesses interested in occupying the train station.

A ton of trash picked from river bank

LEWISTON--Over 3,380 pounds of trash was collected from the banks of the Androscoggin River during the third annual Make A Difference Day. Volunteers cleaned up one and a half miles of riverside in about three and a half hours. Trash included 1,600 pounds of tires, 1,380 pounds of household waste and 400 pounds of metal, including refrigerators and stoves.

Loggers

Gammell said OSHA has asked loggers, and the groups that represent them, to comment on the new standards.

If the response of local woodsmen is any indication, loggers will have plenty to say.

"Any regulations that OSHA puts on us are going to be trouble," said a local logger, who asked to remain nameless, fearing OSHA might strike back at any criticism. "The weather one is laughable for loggers. We go out every day no matter what the weather. It would be impossible for us to work if they enforce that regulation. Last winter we wouldn't have worked two-thirds of the time. Nobody out in the woods wants to work unsafe. But this is a lot of nit-picking. If you link the problems with Workman's Comp to the OSHA regs, it's becoming ridiculous."

Several other loggers agreed, especially about the proposed weather restrictions.

"We should have sense enough to know if we should be there or not," said Danny Long of East Bethel. "Everything has a cost hooked to it. The less you can work, the more the product will cost. It's going to have to get passed on somewhere."

"Everyone is concerned about safety," Long said. "But you've got to use your head about things. We make more money in the winter than in the summer. The wood pulls better. It's cleaner. It delimits better. In the summer you just make a living. It's in the winter where you really make your money."

Bill Myers of Bethel agreed.

"As far as not working in the heavy rain or snow or severe weather, that would have pretty much eliminated working last winter," Myers said. "The wind condition is the one we're usually more concerned with. If it gets too windy, we'd be more likely to call it quits than during snow or rain. It's just the idea that if we do work in the heavy snow or rain or cold, and something does happen, now they can come back and say 'You were violating OSHA regs.' It automatically puts you in the wrong."

Don Bennett of Bethel said most OSHA rules are common sense, but some ultimately come down to loggers losing money.

"It all boils down to dealing on a daily, weekly and monthly basis with less money to work with and more regulations to deal with," Bennett said. "I purchased safety cans for gasoline. They cost $35 to $40 each for 2.5 gallon cans because they had a safety sticker on them. I'm willing to do the right thing, but it's an ever-increasing burden. Everyone wants to be safe, but I guess I'm not sure I want someone else saying what safe is."

Reggie Gilbert of Bear Paw Lumber said making sure his subcontractors live up to the new standards will add a new worry to his job.

More regs besides the weather

The OSHA guidelines are effective Feb. 9, 1995. Previous rules only applied to pulpwood logging, while the new guidelines apply to all aspects of the logging industry.

OSHA officials say the rules are necessary to save lives and lost-workday accidents.

There are about 72,000 loggers nationwide. The new standards mandate workers to wear logging boots, and requires employers to make sure the boots are worn. Employers, however, do not have to pay for the boots.

Other personal protective gear, such as, gloves, leg and foot protection, and eye and face shields, must be proved by the employer at no cost to the employee.

Employers must also ensure that each employee receives first-aid training at least every three years, and CPR training at least annually.

The rules also require that loggers work within visual or audible contact of another employee. First-aid kits must also be available at each worksite, landing area and on each crew vehicle.

Each chainsaw placed into initial service after the rule is effective must also be equipped with a chain brake and meet other regulations.

Each new piece of motor-driven logging equipment must also be equipped with some kind of structure that protects workers from falling trees and rollovers.

"You can do the right thing in your mind," Bennett said, "but if it's not what OSHA says you'll get fined."

The American Pulp Association will hold a Western Maine Forest Forum on Dec. 13 in Norway at the Country Way Restaurant.

The forum is open to the public, and the new OSHA standards will be discussed.

The group gathers at 5 p.m., dinner is at 6 p.m., and speakers are scheduled for 7 p.m.

There is a fee for dinner, for more information call Davis Maass at 655-2393.

Way cleared for ambulance barn to go to lower Main St.

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Bethel Board of Appeals has approved variances which will allow the town to relocate its ambulance barn to a small parcel of town-owned land on lower Main Street.

The site had been approved by the town Planning Board earlier last month, but on the condition that the town obtain variances to two shoreland zoning restrictions: a minimum lot size requirement of 60,000 square feet for governmental uses, and a stipulation that limits development to 20 percent of the lot size.

The lower Main Street site is only 8,900 square feet in area, and rights-of-way already take up nearly 20 percent of the lot.

At an Appeals Board meeting Thursday, Town Manager Madeleine Henley argued the restrictions prevented the town from earning "a reasonable return" on the property.

Following a very brief discussion, the Appeals Board voted unanimously to grant the needed variances.

The ambulance barn is being relocated from its current Cross Street site, which is slated to become part of Bethel Station. The cost of the relocation is being paid by the project developers, as part of the original land-swap deal.

Henley was scheduled to meet today (Wednesday) with developer Heinie Merrill to establish a schedule for relocating the building.

From the Bethel Police log:

All's quiet on Halloween

Halloween night in the Bethel village and surrounding area passed quietly, according to Police Chief Dale Bellman. "We made it quiet by being out there," Bellman said. Bellman and three other officers patrolled from dark until late evening, he said. At 5:20 p.m. police confiscated a bag of tomatoes and cucumbers from a group of juveniles. Later, at 7:50 p.m., police seized several eggs from a different group of juveniles.

In other recent police news, on Monday, Oct. 31, a Railroad Street resident complained that a idling train engine was keeping her awake.

On Friday, Oct. 28, a Northwest Bethel Road contractor reported the theft of several tools. Taking from a job site were Skilsaws valued at $500, a metal cutter worth $700 and a $2,000 generator.

On Thursday, Oct. 27, a Route 26 construction lot manager reported the theft of skidder chains valued at $900. The same day, following a routine traffic stop, police charged Bradley Gaudreau, 29, of Bryant Pond with operating a motor vehicle without a license.

On Wednesday, Oct. 26, police helped a Route 26 farmer round up and corral a bull that had wandered into the road.

year when I know I can depend on Roland."

Powell said she's always in need for volunteers willing to give homebound patients a little care and friendship. In addition to the Senior Companion program, there's also Visiting Volunteers, who volunteer what time they can each week, and receive no stipend.

"We can never have enough volunteers," Powell said. "In the rural areas we serve, it is particularly difficult for the homebound person to get the support he or she needs to remain at home.

Volunteers help with shopping, transportation, meal preparation or minor housekeeping and maintenance chores. But mostly, they bring the outside world into the home of a sick person, who often times has been isolated for many years."

Anyone interest in volunteering can contact Powell at AHHS's Lewiston office at 1-800-482-7412.

HONDURAN PRESENTATION

Friday evening, Nov. 4, the World Service Committee of the West Parish Congregational Church will sponsor a potluck supper and presentation on Honduras given by Robbie Doughty of Norway. For the past 20 years Doughty has been spending her winters working on various projects with the people of Honduras.

The World Service Committee welcomes anyone interested in learning more about Honduras to gather at the Congregational Church (Church Street, Bethel) for a potluck supper at 6 p.m. The presentation will follow at approximately 6:45 p.m.

JOBS...

We must work to keep the jobs we have. We must work to get new jobs. If we could help every business create just one new job, we could put over 33,775 people back to work.

TAXES...

We cannot afford to keep taking hard-earned money from taxpayers. We need new priorities - not new taxes. We need more taxpayers, not more taxes.

EDUCATION...

Our school funding formula must be changed and made fairer. Our teachers deserve support and in return our children deserve a good education.

ENVIRONMENT...

A clean and healthy environment is vital to all of us in our daily lives. We must also assure that business and industry can carry on and provide us jobs without sacrificing environmental quality. It can be done.

"WE CAN STILL SEE THAT STUPID THING SLIDING AT US"

Two Bryant Pond village businesses were evacuated Thursday morning after a sled-and-toboggan-laden tractor trailer failed to negotiate a Route 26 curve, tipped on its side, and slid into the building housing the businesses. There were no injuries in the incident, but the two proprietors of Ann and Jan's Sweet Shop were briefly trapped in the building and had to escape through a rear window. One of the two, Janet Dresser, was taken to Stephens Memorial Hospital for observation. With the truck leaking diesel fuel, five children from a day care center in the rear of the building were evacuated and taken to the nearby home of Bethel Police sergeant Darren Tripp. According to the state police, the accident occurred when the driver, Francois Brail, 27, of Quebec attempted to take the southbound turn at a speed that was within the legal limit but too fast for his load, which shifted, tipping over the rig. Brail was unhurt. Damage to the building and the truck was estimated at $10,000 each. Keith Savage, who has owned the building for two years and renovated it extensively, said this is the fifth time a vehicle has run into the building since he purchased it. He said he has been unsuccessful in attempts to convince the Maine Department of Transportation to put up a guardrail at the corner. Both the sweet shop and day care center were reopen for business this week, but sweet shop co-owner Anni Westleigh said her customers have been slow to return. She and her partner were still shaken up about the accident, she said: "Those trucks haven't slowed down any, and we can still see that stupid thing sliding at us." Lower photo: workers from Greeley's Garage of Auburn start a compressor that will inflate the air bags used to right the rig.

DOLLARS FOR DARE—Bethel Police Sgt. Darren Tripp, the local DARE instructor, accepts a check for $619.25 from Dr. Joseph DeMarco of Bethel. The money was raised at DeMarco's recent Patient Appreciation Day. DeMarco estimates he has donated nearly $4,000 in services in Bethel and Rumford, and in return his patients made donations to DARE. DeMarco also raised about $330 for the Rumford area DARE program. (Photo by Wendy Hanscom)

SMH auxiliary Christmas tree lights

This holiday season marks the 12th year for Stephens Memorial Hospital Auxiliary's tree light fundraiser. Beginning Nov. 1, the hospital auxiliary will be selling lights on this commemorative tree that stands on the front lawn of the Norway hospital. Lights will be on sale through Dec. 31. Each year, the auxiliary decorates the tree with lights which are purchased by members of the community, in memory of a relative or loved one, or in honor of a special friend. Lights may be purchased for $5 each for an individual, couple, or family.

This very successful fundraising tradition began 12 years ago when the project was developed to assist Stephens Memorial Hospital in purchasing lifesaving equipment. Over the years, its popularity has grown and the fundraiser has become one of the highlights of the holiday season.

Bethel area community members should call Mrs. Barbara Douglas at 824-2229, or purchase a light at Preb's Pharmacy. Christmas tree light cards may be mailed to Mrs. H. O. Cornwall, Paris, ME 04271.

Help us to help others.
We will gratefully accept your wig donations.

Congratulations to Andover Elementary School fifth-grader Christina Downs, the student of the week for Oct. 10-14. The fourth and fifth-graders held a geography bee recently. Freddy Bailey won first place, sharing second place honors were Ben Sabin, Michael Sabin, Amanda Blood, and Samantha Ladd.

The Calvary Congregational Church invites all to their pancake breakfast to be served on Sunday, Nov. 6, at 8:30 a.m. The Sunday School members are hosting the annual event. The Teen Club will resume meetings on Tuesday evenings at 6:30 p.m. Those needing rides may contact Pastor Waite at 392-1121.

The Class of 1995 invites all to attend their Rada Cutlery open house on Nov. 9, 6-8 p.m. at the home of Betsey White. Sales of the cutlery will benefit their scholarship fund.

Mrs. Grace Simmons spent several days in Prince Edward Island visiting relatives. She was accompanied by her sister Edna Hilton of Kittery and friend Marjorie Porter of Falmouth.

Sympathy is extended to the White and Hines families for the death of Minnie. Mrs. Hines attended Andover schools and lived in East Andover most of her life, later she resided in Rumford.

The Greenwood Fire Department Auxiliary met Monday evening at the Fire Station with Sally Melville, Veronica Penley, Mary Stone, Lorraine Mills and Cheryl Young present. The Craft Fair was the topic of discussion. It will be held at the Fire Station on Saturday, Nov. 5, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. It was decided to keep table prices the same as last year. If you would like a table and cannot find the ad that gives the phone numbers, please feel free to call any member and the message will be relayed. The auxiliary will be having a food table if anyone cares to donate to it, and lunch will be available as it was in past years. Val and Caroline Greene of Massachusetts were at their home here over the weekend.

I said that the Roys were doing some maintenance work on their house but the work was actually a lovely dormer window on the backside roof. It does not pay to assume anything, but when I saw shingles being taken off I thought it was re-roofing time.

I mentioned one time that a 25-mile radius was my comfort zone when it came to traveling, especially alone. So last week I borrowed Lucy from Owen and Debbie Brown, having lost Joshua on Oct. 16, and went to Lewiston. I needed to get to Sears, but I don't like all the lights so I went around and back up the street. This time it was a big mistake, as I got into traffic backed up for some distance because of the apartment house fire they had that day. In the process of getting re-routed and with cars back and front and coming in from side streets, I looked down and my temperature gauge read "hot" and would have gone off the gauge if possible. Too late, I remember why my comfort zone is 25 miles! All I needed and all the fire department needed was another fire. I did a lot of praying as I inched along and breathed a sigh of relief when a garage loomed up in the distance, and I was able to work into an outside lane and over to the garage. By the time the car had cooled and the necessary things done to get me hopefully home, I had decided reaching Sears was not as important as I thought, and I gratefully headed back, keeping a watchful eye on the gauge. It did go up halfway and I will have to have the radiator fixed or replaced, but at least I was back in my comfort zone. Lucy was bored with the whole thing and slept all the way home.

In Ecclesiastes it says there are seasons and times for all things under heaven, and it certainly seems I have been in a season of sorrows and losses, first my husband, then my dog, and now my good friend Louise Loring. I also have a dear friend in Illinois who is losing her nearly 30-year battle with cancer. But this place in time belongs to Louise, as we struggle to make sense out of the loss of a woman who had such talent -- as a writer, cook, mother, and being a good friend, the latter being a rare commodity in these days of putting oneself first. Her wit and wisdom and her example of faith has gone from this world and those left behind will be poorer for it; but she left a rich legacy for her family to build on and her friends to remember, not in earthly goods but in "treasures in heaven" that while on earth she shared with us and that now have gone before her. In whatever time is left us here we'll miss you, Louise, we surely will.

Nick and Marta Clements took a quick trip to Baltimore, Md., to see their new granddaughter, Carolyn Anita. Carolyn is the daughter of David and Dr. Audrey Lazenby. Nick and Marta flew down and spent the weekend. Marta said she's the cutest baby she's ever seen, naturally.

Marta visited her mother, Charlotte Thompson, last weekend at Camden Health Center.

There are many October birthdays I have missed. They are: Donald Mason, Jr., Barby Mason, Roger Wilday, Jeanne Grover, Virginia Mason, Jerrold Mason, Lisa Ryerson, Mathew Ryerson, and Chad Ryerson. Sorry if I missed anyone; hope everyone had a happy day.

I attended the fall concert at Oxford Hills High School. Sarah Hart was in the chorus. It was very enjoyable, although I wish they'd sing more songs that are familiar to most everyone. I only recognized one or two, and I thought I knew a lot of songs.

Jessie Hart spent last Sunday night with me. Carol and Neil Hall dropped her off in the early evening on their way home from visiting friends.

Barbara Cash is home from the hospital where she had been for several months. She is staying with her daughter and husband, Alicia and Floyd Stevens. Barbara's sister, Claribel Poland, told me Barbara is doing pretty good and made a dooryard call to Claribel's recently. Hope you're coming along fine, Barbara, and will soon be feeling fine again.

The Molly Ockett Antique Barn is opened weekends and some during the week this fall. They have had a lot of customers this summer and during leaf season.

Larry Billings, curator, Woodstock Historical Society, reports that there is now a very interesting art collection at the museum. The society promotes cultural and historical ideas. The society is now an important part of our heritage. It keeps a record of our development over the years.

Ryan Wing and Tony Bouchard, students who attended Boys State at the Maine Maritime Academy in Castine last June, related their experiences to the Ring-McKeen American Legion Post and Auxiliary this week. A potluck supper was served before the boys gave their speeches. The Boys State delegates were sponsored by Perham's Mineral Store, Whitman's Market, Emery's Building Supply, Oxford Bank and Trust-West Paris branch, West Paris Hardware, Andrews Funeral Home, Molly Ockett Sportsman's Club, Lodgeview Nursing Home, Vernon Inman, West Paris General Store and the Ring-McKeen Post. Both boys enjoyed the week spent at the academy.

Cleo Ryerson attended a baby shower for Becky Ryerson (Keith Ryerson's wife) Saturday afternoon at Wanda Ryerson's home in Bethel. Becky received many cute and useful gifts from family and friends.

The night has fallen and I'm inspired to write. Tonight is Wednesday, one of the few nights that I watch television. "Roseanne" is on and it is always so funny; I encourage everyone to put aside their feelings toward the real-life Roseanne and tune in to this hilarious program. Now that you all know how much I like this show, you'll probably stop reading my column!

My sympathies to the family of Louise Loring. Her column was always full of insights into life, nature, and family, and it will be missed by many readers.

Tonight, my cousin Allison and her husband Blaine are arriving for a visit. On Saturday, we will celebrate their wedding reception with a family gathering. Sarah Chapman will be returning Friday night and staying through to Sunday. It will be nice to see my cousins.

Linda Tyler paid a visit to Emma Billings on Tuesday. Tammy Billings called on her while she was at Emma's.

My brother Jason reports that he is having a lot of fun with Todd Wing in Mrs. Conant's introduction to foods class. I don't know why he wants me to put that in here, but I'm agreeing due to a simple lack of news!

My grandparents, Sterling and Irene Mills, left last week for their trip to Tennessee and South Carolina.

On Friday, 50 students from Telstar enjoyed a trip to the opera, "Don Giovanni," at the Portland City Hall. I went, along with several of my friends, and we had a lot of fun. Mrs. Melville put together the trip.

I can't believe that it is almost November. On Friday, I will turn 18. Time passes so quickly, and only memories linger behind. Memories, however, are one of life's greatest gifts. I hope that all of you treasure your memories, and keep on making new ones. That's it from North Woodstock.

The Woodstock Historical Society puts us in touch with our origins. Encourage and support society members in their efforts. Curator Larry Billings has given the society a painting that is the companion piece to one he gave earlier. The museum now has a respectable art collection. The society records the best of the past; people, places, events, traditions, and ideas are all important aspects of such a study. People learn about their lessons for the present and future and value their significance in general. The society helps revitalize this community and area.

The Woodstock-Greenwood Senior Citizens will meet Thursday, Nov. 3, for a meeting at the Grange Hall. Dinner will be served at noon by the W.H.S. alumni, and the program will feature Edwin Howe, who will show slides of his trip to Alaska.

Franklin Grange will meet on Monday, Nov. 7, with a program on Veterans' Day. Please bring Thanksgiving tickets and something for the basket.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Louise Foster Loring.

Be sure to vote on Nov. 8. It is a freedom of which we should all take advantage.

JoAnn, David, Ray and Shawn Crockett were dinner guests on Sunday of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hoyt and grandmother Beatrice Farnum.

Eight members attended the D.U.V. of the Civil War inspection at East Stoneham on Wednesday night. A delicious supper was held with Norway, East Stoneham and Bryant Pond Tents combined. It was a very enjoyable evening. Department President Gail Butterfield and Department Inspector Edith Pulkkinen were present. A new member was initiated into Stoneham Tent.

The Woodstock Republican Town Committee will endorse all Republican candidates for election on Nov. 8.

The Daughters of Union of the Civil War 1861-1865, F. Richardson Tent 19 met Monday night, Oct. 26, for an inspection at the K.P. H. Grover Tent 17, Bryant Elizabeth Crockett Blakely Norway, joined them for a supper of casseroles and pies, etc., at the church. The meeting was preceded by the meeting, conducted by tent president Dean. Department president Butterfield was present to initiate a new member, Shibles, into the order. The meeting was a success and the charter was a memory of a departed member. Pulkkinen gave the tent report. Candies, etc., were in to be put into "goodie" Togs and the veterans' meeting was adjourned after an auction was held on some items were donated. The next meeting will be held on Nov. 16.

On Monday, Oct. 24, Plummer, who impersonated Chamberlain, spoke at the Hobbs Library in Lovell. He did his personification very interesting, and a splendid job of it. He was induced by a local author from Harry Crosby. Member Daughters of Union Veterans Civil War were there to refreshments after the meeting. Those from town were Smith, Eleanor Nelson, L. Joyce Gouin and Gail Butterfield. Troy Nelson was one of the tents and two teachers -- who have gone from Academy to Chincoteague work-study project. They are on the National Wildlife Refuge Assn. The Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War 1861-1865 Hannah F. Richardson Tent 19 met Wednesday night, Oct. 26, for their annual inspection at the K.P. Hall. Judith Grover Tent 17, Bryant Pond, and Elizabeth Crockett Blake Tent 8, Norway, joined them for this meeting. A supper of casseroles, salads and pies, etc., at the church vestry preceded the meeting, which was conducted by tent president Lesley Dean. Department president Gail Butterfield was present and helped to initiate a new member, Amy Shibles, into the order. Balloting was done on a prospective member and the charter was draped in memory of a departed member. Inspector of the department, Edith Pulkkinen gave the tent a good report. Candies, etc., were brought in to be put into "goodie" bags for Togus and the veterans' homes. The meeting was adjourned and a silent auction was held on some items that were donated. The next meeting will be held on Nov. 16.

On Monday, Oct. 24, Charles Plummer, who impersonates Joshua Chamberlain, spoke at the Charlotte Hobbs Library in Lovell Village and did his personification which was very interesting, and he did a splendid job of it. He was introduced by a local author from Lovell, Harry Crosby. Members of the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War were there to help serve refreshments after the program. Those from town were: Eleanor Smith, Eleanor Nelson, Leslie Dean, Joyce Gouin and Gail Butterfield.

Troy Nelson was one of seven students and two teachers -- drivers -- who have gone from Fryeburg Academy to Chincoteague, Va., on a work-study project. They are working on the National Wildlife Refuge on Assateague Island. While there they will visit the NASA facility.

Eddie and Lois Neimi have sold their home in Oxford and are getting settled in their remodeled summer cottage at Lake Keewaydin here in Stoneham.

Dwight and Mary Grover have received word of the great honor that their daughter, Peggy Pinkham, has received. She is the chief nursing officer at St. Andrews Hospital and has been named Nurse Executive of the Year by Quorum Health Resources for its Eastern Division. She is one of only four nurse executives selected for Quorum's highest honor out of 320 hospitals nationwide. She received the award on Sept. 21 at the National Nursing Conference in New Orleans. She also received Quorum's Douglas Smith Excellence Award. Peggy is the mother of two sons: Matthew, 16, and Timothy, 11. She is Sunday School teacher and past superintendent at the Boothbay Harbor Congregational Church and a member of the YMCA Board of Directors. Congratulations to you, Peggy. You have earned all the praise and honors bestowed upon you.

Helen Havista has been staying a few weeks with her brother and wife, Walter and Carolyn Heino, and has now left to go to her home in Florida.

couldn't eat solid food for two or three days. Sorry to have missed it. Betsy Clark, Karlene Bachelder, Doris Parent, Irene Hadfield and Olive Anderson of the "Newry Bowling Gang" were at the Oxford Lanes, Rumford, one day last week. On the overall scores Karlene was high on the triples but Irene, of the "Righties," beat her 106 single with a 114 single string. Betsy had four spares, Karlene had seven spares, Irene had four spares and one strike. Doris had two spares and Olive had one spare.

Cheers to Audrey Brooke, former MSAD44 school board member, for instructing the students of Andover Elementary School the Native American art of weaving and grass-gathering in early October.

were chilly and the days were warm. They were ideal for wandering. I thought of how far I'd like to wander, but I knew I'd get lazy and find a big rock on which to sit. There, I'd watch the squirrels romp in the leaves and listen to the jays squawk.

At this time the countryside has an unkempt look, as if all things had been neglected. Of course nature isn't very neat. The roadsides rustle with fallen leaves. Dried goldenrod stems scatter seeds. Virginia creeper and grapevines hang from trees. Milkweed pods open and spill their fluff like goose feathers from a torn pillow.

The withered grass and fallen weeds need combing, but nature doesn't mind. It hasn't time to be neat.

I heard a fox last night, the first one I have heard this fall. It was barking close by, in back of the house it seemed. The bark of the red fox is sharp and high pitched. I still remember the first one I ever heard. It was so strange and nothing like a bark I knew.

I took a ride a few days ago to see color. I have seen it brighter but it was lovely this time, too. So many yellows and the sumac was pure fire.

We went and we came back. When we neared my place, there stood the brilliant yellow maple by my house, which I admire each year. The ash leaves by the top driveway run from almost golden-yellow through a warm tan or chocolate brown.

When I entered the house I repeated to myself what Clyde said so many times, when he was here, "This is the best of all."

On Oct. 20, our local teachers' club met at the Little Brooks' farm for our Christmas party. One of the group leaves for Florida at this time, so we celebrate early. We had a boiled dinner and a very good time.

Ann Holt visited a college friend in Portland on Saturday and they did some shopping.

Zilpha DiArenzo's daughter Louise, who has been with her for several weeks, has returned home and another daughter, Jane, is with her now.

Howdy, folks. After having several cloudy mornings, we are blessed again this Monday morning with clear blue skies. How lucky can you get!

Peggy and I attended Halloween Night at Franklin Grange in the evening. Our regular Master was sick, so I filled in as Master for the evening. Peggy took my office as Asstant Steward and Anna Woodworth was Lady Assistant Steward. It was cloudy on Thursday morning, and we decided this would be a good time to visit sister Viva in Auburn. We found her asleep in bed, but was told to wake her up, which we did.

That evening, we attended Green Sash Night at West Paris Grange. This is when the Oxford Pomona officers fill the offices. Some of the officers couldn't be there so others had to take their places. We had a real good attendance and it was quite a nice meeting.

Friday afternoon, I spent much of my time picking over junk mail that I had received. It amazes me that so many people know my address.

I worked outside much of the forenoon on Sunday. I emptied the rest of my rain barrels and put them away for the winter. I took down the fence to keep the deer from the kale and removed the kerosene rags that were hung on posts. Then I inspected the roof of one of the out buildings to find that it needs some attention, as there are several leaks and places that will start to leak.

Yesterday afternoon, we went, as did others, to West Sumner to pick up some articles at the old Pleasant Pond Grange Hall and take them to the Franklin Grange Hall. Ralph and Kenneth Hoyt each went with their trucks, so there was space to haul a lot of merchandise. Peggy and I went up to Franklin Grange Hall to help Ralph and Kenneth unload. It was a busy afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dunn from East Sumner visited with Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Mack recently.

The West Paris School is still accepting Campbell's Soup labels. They may be left at the school or with Mary Lovejoy.

There will be a dance at West Paris Grange Hall on Nov. 5, with music by the Richard Felt Orchestra. Dancing is from 8 p.m. to midnight.

The Woodstock High School alumni will be serving a Thanksgiving dinner for the Bryant Pond Senior Citizen group on Thursday, Nov. 3, at the Franklin Grange Hall in Bryant Pond. A good dinner is planned for that day, and we hope that there will be a large attendance.

There will be a rabies clinic at the West Paris Grange from 3 to 5 p.m. There will also be a Town Clerk at the hall to provide proper paper for dog registration.

First, I want to thank all my Maine friends who sent me birthday wishes: Julia Goodwin, Irene Hadfield, Amy and Roger Hanscom, Bea Lowell, Olive and Jim Anderson, Dick and Betsy Clark, Karlene and Rick Bachelder, Bill and Sylvia Wight, Sue and Owen Wight, Ruth Cummings, and Ruth and Herb Kirtledge. You don't know how happy it makes me feel to have such wonderful, caring friends. Thank you and God Bless. And from Florida... Louise sent me a bowling gift... Wait... there is more... Ras and Karlene hosted a luncheon for Betsy and me Tuesday (Betsy's birthday was Wednesday) -- baked meat pie, ice cream and cake and gifts.

"Our Birth is but a sleep and a forgetting;

The soul that rises with us, our life's star,

Hath had elsewhere its setting, And cometh from afar;

Not in entire forgetfulness, And not in utter darkness,

But trailing clouds of glory do we come

From God, who is our home.

Heaven lies about us in our infancy."

Sylvia Wight enjoyed a delicious luncheon at the Congregational Church in Bethel, put on by the church's Fellowship Ladies for the neighboring members of churches. I was supposed to go with her but had to have a tooth pulled Tuesday, so I

KICKING PAST—Gould Academy senior Jason Gazzilli of Intervale, N.H. prepares to pass a Hyde School runner in the MAISAD cross-country championships held Wednesday at Gould. Gazzilli's ninth-place finish helped Gould's varsity men take second out of six teams.

Correction

Last week's article on the Telstar High School field hockey team should have listed Mandy McInnis as a senior, and not as a returning player.

FREE BASKETBALL CLINIC

There will be a free basketball clinic for a boys and girls in SAD44 on Saturday, Nov. 19, at Telstar High School.

The clinic will be run by the Westbrook College players and coaching staff. Third- through 6th-graders meet from 10 a.m. to noon. Middle school and high school students will play from 1 to 3 p.m.

Soccer

Gould 5, Hebron 0

The Gould Academy men's soccer team defeated Hebron 5-0 on Wednesday, Oct. 26.

Eric Rackliffe racked up two goals, and Lanny Popoola, Shawn Morales and Toji Perlman each contributed a goal.

JV: Gould 2, Proctor 1

The Gould JV men's reserve soccer team ended their season last week with a 2-1 win over Proctor.

Point scorers were Eric Milner, Eung-Kwon Lee and Mark Harries. The boys finished the season with 4-2-1 record. Goalie Matt Lemieux allowed just 7 goals all season.

Field Hockey

Gould 1, Brewster 2

The Gould Academy girls lost their final regular season field hockey game Wednesday, Oct. 26, 1-2 to Brewster.

Amanda Sysko scored the lone Huskie goal on a penalty stroke.

Gould begins MAISAD tournament play today (Wednesday) at Kents Hill.

Cross-country

Gould girls win MAISAD race

Gould's JV and girls' cross-country runners took first in last week's MAISAD championship meet. In the boys' race, Ben Kamilwicz turned in the fastest race time, and the boys took second overall.

Placing in the girls' race were: Chris Shaner, first; Joanna Owen, fourth; Hillary Harrison, sixth; Amy Swinton, eighth and Keavy Cook, ninth.

Top ten finishers for Gould in the boys' race were: Kamilwicz, first, and Jason Gazzilli, ninth.

Gould JV boys' runners took four of the top ten places with Bean Falby, first; Ethan Covey, second; Scott Sawyer, fourth and Zack Leck, eighth.

Golf

Gould loses to Bridgton

Gould's golf team finished its season Wednesday, Oct. 26, with a loss to Bridgton. Walter Hawkes won his match and tied for low gross with a 43, but the Huskies were shut out of all other scoring.

Middle school wins league championship

The Telstar Middle School field hockey team ended their season by beating Mt. Valley Middle School 2-1 in overtime, clinching the Sandy/Andy League Division A championship title.

Mary Ann Lowe scored both Rebel goals. The game-winning goal came a few minutes into sudden-death overtime. Lowe scored on a pass from Angie Buker.

TMS coach Elaine Hutchins listed several outstanding highlights of the Rebel season, including:

- Eleven out of 24 players scored goals this season.

- The Rebels beat Tripp for their first win over Tripp in two years.

- This season's team record of 10-1-1 is the best since 1988.

- The play of two outstanding goalies, Lydia Mills and Jenny Wheeler, who were also strong in their other field positions.

"The team had the dedication, drive and stamina needed to remain in the number one position the entire season," Hutchins said.

Boys lose title game

The middle school soccer team lost its championship bid.

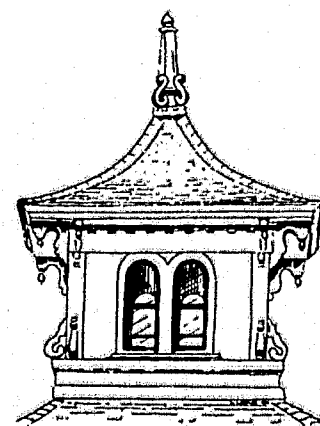

The Rebels lost 1-0 to Mt. Blue in Saturday's Sandy/Andy Division A title match.

The game was hard fought, with Mt. Blue scoring early in the first-half. The Rebels held them off for the rest of the game, but failed to connect for a goal.

NOTES FROM

N.O.V.A.

On Monday, Oct. 24, over 20 high school freshmen, sophomores and juniors from Telstar Regional High School ventured to the White Mountain National Forest, on the bog Road in Gilead. Representatives from NOVA/Region 9, Evans Notch National Forest Service and Boise Cascade provided career awareness in the various types of forestry, environment and land management fields.

Marc Dupuis, NOVA/Region 9 instructor and five NOVA/Region 9 forestry/woodharvesting students demonstrated woodharvesting skills -- chainsaw/felling trees, skidder and twitching trees operation; yard and loading operations. Tom Wheeler, former Evans Notch National Forest Service technician and current NOVA/Region 9 craft committee member, also assisted with tour and demonstration of the NOVA/Region 9 woodharvesting program.

Public affairs director Pat Nasta and forest technician Craig Young, of the Evans Notch National Forest Service, meet with small groups of students regarding the forest service employment opportunities. Potential employees need to be able to relocate, to be adaptive to a variety of skills and to have a desire to work outdoors. Volunteer, summer employment and America Corp. programs are all vital stepping stones to full-time employment with the forest service. Wildlife management, fisheries, and trail and park management are some areas of Forest Service Management.

Kim Williams, forester with Boise Cascade, also met with students in small groups. She described the role of the forester as one who works at managing many acres of timber and forest. Some of her duties involve contracting woodharvesting contractors; surveying and marking land for cutting/harvesting; assessing environmental and conservation measures of forests; fighting fires; speaking to students and teachers at schools; writing reports and forecasting long-term forestry management plans. Foresters need a minimum bachelor's/four-year degree from a college/university with emphasis in science.

Dan Hart, NOVA Region student services coordinator developed and coordinated the forestry careers program. NOVA/Region 9 director Dewaine Craig greeted guest presenters and students, facilitated tours and provided several photographic opportunities of students and forestry career presenters.

Students not able to attend this program and/or are interested in forestry/conservation careers may contact Dan Hart, NOVA/Region 9 student services coordinator, at 364-3764.

SPEAK AT MUSKIE INSTITUTE--Kelly Jarimillo and Justin Gilbert, two Telstar High School sophomores, were speakers recently at an Edmund Muskie Institute conference held at Sebasco Estates in Sebasco. The Edmund Muskie Institute educates young athletes about drugs, alcohol and tobacco through conferences with coaches and athletic directors, who are the athletes' role models. The Telstar students were accompanied by Ivan Roberts, a facilitator for the institute. According to Roberts, the conference was a great opportunity to recognize good kids. "I was pleased I was given the opportunity to take these two students to the conference to speak about their views of athletic policies in their schools," he said. If any group would like to have Roberts speak at their meetings, they may contact him through the athletic director at Telstar High School or at his home, 665-2416.

Friends of TMS laser karaoke night

On Saturday, Nov. 5, from 4 to 7 p.m. the Friends of Telstar Middle School will sponsor a Laser Karaoke Night with Pete Robertson.

NOTES FROM

Adult Education

The Adult Education program in the Telstar Region will offer several courses in the weeks prior to the Thanksgiving holiday. To enroll in any of the courses, call the Adult Education office at 824-2780.

Herbal Holiday Gifts is a popular workshop class scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 15, with Carol Post. The class will run from 6:30 to 9 p.m. In response to the enthusiastic response to this class, an additional section has been scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 8, also from 6:30 to 9 p.m. The workshop will allow participants to spend the evening preparing syrup, salves, oils, teas, baths, and more, using local herbs for cosmetic, culinary and medicinal gift items. Participants should bring eight small containers with tight lids. Any registrant for the Nov. 15 section who wishes to change to the section on the 8th should call the Adult Education office. The fee is $15.

The Maine Course is training for those who are employed in restaurants and lounges in the service of alcoholic beverages. This seminar meets state requirements and is offered in cooperation with Central Maine Technical College. Susan Violette is the instructor. The class will be held on Saturday, Nov. 19, from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Adult Learning Center. The fee is $33. There will be another section of the Maine Course on Dec. 17.

Cooking for Special Diets is the topic of a workshop to be held on Thursday, Nov. 10, as part of the FEARLESS Natural Cooking Series. Catherine DiCocco will cover low fat, vegetarian, vegan, allergies, and the safe handling of foods and storage at home. The class will be held at Telstar from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. The fee is $5.

The winter term for adult education will begin in mid-January. New courses are needed to provide a variety of Cabin Fever Specials and short courses. Those interested in offering a course or workshop through the adult education program this winter should contact Cathy Newell, director of Adult Education at 824-2780.

Driving Dynamics

A Maine driving dynamics course is scheduled for Bethel in November. Classes will be held at Telstar High School on Monday and Wednesday evenings, Nov. 14 and 16, from 6:30 to 9.

Instructor Eddy Naples stated that those completing the course will receive a three-point credit on their driving record. Students must register in advance by calling the Adult Education office at 824-2780.

The Maine driving dynamics course covers accident-avoidance techniques which are essential for everyday driving situations with films, classroom discussion, and lectures.

State Trooper applications are available

Maine State Police have begun accepting applications for the position of State Trooper.

Colonel Alfred R. Skolfield, Chief of the State Police said, "We're looking for motivated men and women prepared for challenge and committed to serving the people of Maine." Skolfield said applications will be accepted for a 10-week period, ending on Dec. 5. He said the successful applicants would begin 22 weeks of training at the State Police Academy next year.

Skolfield said the minimum qualifications for State Trooper include a high school diploma or equivalent, no major criminal or motor vehicle record and applicants must be age 21 by July 1, 1995.

Successful applicants will earn $9 an hour while attending the academy and a base salary of $1,756 for a 29-day period following graduation. Top pay for troopers is $30,823 annually.

This is the second time in two years State Police have accepted applications for troopers. Currently, 34 recruits are attending the academy and graduation is scheduled for Nov. 4. Skolfield said there are now 338 sworn officers in the State Police, with 20 known retirements before the end of the year.

Applications can be obtained from any Maine Job Service Office or from the Maine Bureau of Human Resources, State House Station #4, Augusta, ME 04333-0004. Additional information on the application process is available from the State Police's Personnel Office in Augusta at 624-7056.

Kevin Mullen of West Paris was among 24 high school juniors and seniors who participated in the fourth Young Scholars Program last summer at the University of Maine.

He worked with UMaine faculty on research projects such as neural engineering, which involved artificial stimulation of the leg muscles to allow paraplegics to stand, walk and climb stairs.

Mullen, a student at Telstar High School, also helped design and build a "precision catapult" capable of launching sphere such as baseballs, golf balls or eggs up to 50 feet.

Navy Airman Apprentice David Barnes, a 1993 graduate of Telstar High School, recently graduated from the Basic Avionics Technician Course.

During the course at the Naval Air Technical Training Center in Montgomery, Tenn., students received technical instruction on the study of electronics and the study of electronics necessary to perform entry level aviation electronics maintenance tasks.

From the UM Cooperative Extension:

Putting the garden to bed

It is hard to believe that the growing season is behind us, that it is time to hunker down and prepare for winter, but before you crawl into the easy-chair there are a few things to take care of that will make next year's growing a little easier.

1) Take a Soil Test -- Soil tests are valuable instruments that let you know and not guess what your soil needs to produce your crop or garden next season. They are easy to take and relatively quick and painless to do. If you haven't done one in the past three years, you should consider doing so this fall. Fall sampling is better than spring sampling because the soil is in better shape (no mucking around up to your knees in mud); you get the test results faster because the lab isn't as busy as in the spring; and, if the test results indicate a need for lime, you can apply it now and have it partially reacted by springtime. Soil test forms and boxes are available from the University of Maine Cooperative Extension office, 9 Olson Road, South Paris, ME 04281 (743-6329 or 1-800-287-1482). It is the smartest $10 you can spend in the garden.

2) Pick Up Fruit Drops in the Orchard -- Good sanitation practices are important for reducing insect and disease problems in home orchards. Leaves, and fruit that falls from the tree before ripening, and any unused fruit at harvest should be promptly removed from the orchard. Many common pests such as plum curculio, apple scab, apple maggot and the grape fruit moth over-winter on old fruit and leaves. By removing this debris now, you will reduce pest infestations next season.

3) Clean Garden and Farm Tools -- There is nothing more frustrating than to go to do a gardening chore only to find the tool isn't ready for the job. Save yourself that aggravation by sharpening and cleaning all of the tools now. Use a wooden or metal scraper to remove dirt, a wire brush for the finer material, and wipe dry with a rough rag. For most horticultural tools, a flat metal file is the implement of choice for sharpening. Knives and pruners are most effectively sharpened on an oilstone. Metal surfaces such as shovels and hoes may benefit by a light coating of oil to prevent rusting.

4) Keep Composting -- Compost piles are still active during cool weather, so keep tending to your pile. However, don't forget to use your garden as a compost site too. Why cart garden and kitchen wastes to the pile when they can be buried or scattered right in the garden. Decomposition will be faster and the nutrients will be where you need them next season without having to haul them out of the compost bin. This method is known as sheet composting and is very effective until the ground freezes.

Bethel Inn plans shared-ownership condos

The Bethel Inn and Country Club has announced plans for 12 luxury Shared Vacation Home units which the inn plans to offer for sale in five-week-a-year vacation packages.

"Our resort is ideally suited to this increasingly popular form of ownership, which allows people to purchase a specific number of weeks at a fraction of full ownership cost," said Dick Rasor, the resort's owner since 1979.

"Many of our 30,000 annual guests who come to ski and play golf are looking for an ownership situation which offers year-round vacation opportunities combined with the amenities of a first class resort."

The units will include two bedrooms and two baths, fireplace, deck, a large living and dining area and full kitchen. The 1,500 square feet will be on two floors, similar to the 40 existing condominiums constructed on the golf course in 1988. The units will be sold fully furnished, including housewares.

Rasor also cited the growing popularity of shared ownership as demonstrated locally, regionally and throughout the world. Resort Condominiums International which facilitates trades of vacation weeks among owners boasts nearly 3,000 resorts and over 1,700,000 members who trade their time each year.

According to Rasor, a major factor in the success of shared ownership is cost. He estimates the price for a five-week ownership period, including ski and golf weeks will be $25,000.

As with the original 40 Bethel Inn condos, all of which were sold prior to construction, the inn is now seeking reservation deposits, which are refundable at any time, in order to test the consumer viability of the project.

The annual five-week periods can be tailored to each buyer's recreational interests and can favor either the summer or winter months. Specific selection of weeks and units will be on a first-come, first-served basis as determined by dates of reservation deposits.

"We have barely started our efforts and the interest is running high," Rasor said. "We are offering something not now available in the Bethel area which has very well-known summer and winter recreational facilities. The five-week period is consistent with the limited vacation time people have and the private home configuration is a very attractive proposition."

Current plans call for construction to begin in the spring of next year with occupancy in time for the 1995-96 ski season.

"If response continues to be as positive as it has already been, we will proceed with all necessary approvals early in the new year at which time public offering statements and purchase and sale agreements will be issued to those with reservation deposits," said Rasor.

"Just as we felt the timing was perfect for our $7,000,000 expansion in 1988, we believe now the time is right for this next phase. Local growth, combined with the demonstrated popularity of the shared vacation home concept makes this project very attractive."

GOULD BLOOD DRIVE

Gould Academy will host a blood drive on Tuesday, Nov. 8, from 12 to 5 p.m. in the Bingham gym.

Three-hundred pints of donated blood per day are needed in Maine in order for the American Red Cross to meet the current demand. The donation of a single pint of blood can help to save three lives.

Donors must be in general good health, and weigh at least 110 pounds. Walk-in donors are welcome, or to make an appointment or receive further information, call Pat Donovan or Debbie Gilbert at 824-7700.

OXFORD POMONA GRANGE

Oxford Pomona Grange met at Franklin Grange, Bryant Pond, for its October meeting. The host Grange served a supper preceding the meeting.

Honored guests were: Hazel Conant, treasurer of the Maine State Grange and husband Francis Conant, past deputy, and Lewis and Myrtle Bisbee, deputies of Oxford Pomona.

The fifth degree was conferred on Juanita Allen, Lisa, Nada, Hada, Brian, Marina and Warren Sessions.

Applications were accepted from Jon and Dori Longley, Betty J. Grover, Shirley Lowell and Jarrod Crockett.

Reports were given by the Legislative, Agriculture, C.W.A., Youth, Deaf Activities, Community Service, and Scholarship committees.

Oxford Pomona Grange and West Paris Grange are co-sponsoring a Flu Clinic on Oct. 25 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at West Paris Grange Hall.

A thank-you was received from Gerald Kennison for the scholarship award given to him.

A sum of money was donated to the Maine State Grange Investment in Youth by the Youth Committee and the Grange in memory of Hulda Stevens.

NORMAN WIGHT HONORED--Norman Wight, father of Gould Academy mathematics instructor John Wight, and grandfather of Amanda '92 and Nate '95, was honored at an assembly during parents' weekend. Wight taught at the Dublin School in Dublin, N.H., before moving to Harrison, where he lives with his wife, Ruth. A registered Maine Guide, the 80-year-old Wight now leads canoe trips in the summer and assists Gould with its outdoor orientation trips. Headmaster Bill Clough cited Wight's commitment to education, young people, and Gould Academy, as he presented him with the book "The Bogs of Northern New England," one of the few books on the outdoors which Wight has not already read. BETHEL SENIOR CITIZENS

The Bethel Senior Citizens will meet at 11 a.m., Nov. 9, in the Masonic Hall, Chapman Street, Bethel. Dinner will be catered by members of Purity Chapter O.E.S. and will cost $5 per person. Guest speaker will be Dr. Harper of Norway.

BOOKSTORE OPEN HOUSE

Books 'N Things, the new bookstore in Philbrook Place on lower Main Street in Bethel, will hold an open house Thursday, Nov. 3 from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

The public is invited, and a discount of 15 percent will be applied to any books purchased during the open house.

AIR SERVICE ADDS NEW PLANE, NEW PILOT--Ed Hemmy (left) has joined Bethel Air Service as a pilot and instructor. Hemmy is a recent aeronautical science graduate of Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University in Florida. The local air service now boasts two aircraft that are available for charter. The Beechcraft Bonanza show here will speed up charter runs by 55 percent, according to B.A.S. co-president Dan Bilodeau (right). For example, passengers can now connect to Boston in less than an hour, or to New York City in an hour and 40 minutes. (Photo by Michael Daniels)

Card of Thanks

To the staff of Stephen's Memorial Hospital, Dr's Eshleman and Douglass, Pace, Sondra and Rodney Withey, Bob Noyes and the neighbors of Gilead we extend our appreciation. To Andrews Funeral Home, Glen Henderson, Reverends Hanson and Lord we are deeply grateful. To all of you who supported us in our great loss with cards, flowers, food, hugs, kind words, comfort and love and to you all who knew Louise and rallied to our sides to provide us with your strength, courage and kindness; know that words cannot convey our sincerest gratitude, but do know that because of you, our hearts are lighter and our grief bearable.

God bless you. From the bottom of our hearts we sincerely thank you.

The family of: Louise B. Loring

Card of Thanks

The family of Frank Worcester wishes to convey our heartfelt thanks for the many expressions of kindness at this time and during his illness.

We want to note with special gratitude the care and attention provided by Dr. Kevin Finley and the Bethel Area Health Center. There are no words adequate to tell how much we appreciate the angels of the Androscoggin Home Health Services who did so much to help make him comfortable in his home. Our special thanks, too, to the Rev. Deborah Jenks for being so understanding and helpful during our time of loss.

May each of your lives be blessed as his and ours were, because of you.

Mr. & Mrs. Gregory C. Murphy

Glori Anne Bolio and Gregory Carl Murphy were united in marriage at Bryant Pond Baptist Church on Sept. 10 at 1 p.m. by Rev. Linwood Hanson.

The bride is the daughter of Ernest H. and Nadja Bolio of Bryant Pond. The groom is the son of Dr. Carl and Estelle Murphy of South Portland.

Glori was escorted to the altar by her father. She wore a white full length gown of silk and lace. The princess bodice featured pearls and sequins with lace sleeves and a full tulle skirt with a train. She carried a bouquet of red roses and white carnations with baby's breath and stephanotis. The maid of honor was Brenda J. Bolio, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Miss Jaimee Bolio and Miss Jenny Prokopovich. The best man was Mark Haskell, friend of the groom. Ushers were David Briggs and Dana Cook.

A reception was held at the Woodstock School gym following the ceremony.

The couple enjoyed a honeymoon cruise to Mexico and now reside in South Portland.

The bride graduated from Telstar High School and attended Liberty University.

The bridegroom graduated from South Portland High School and Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University in Florida. He is currently employed as a charter pilot.

Card of Thanks

I wish to thank my family and friends for all the cards, gifts, money and the beautiful birthday cake on my 95th birthday. Also the girls at the nursing home who take such good care of me.

Thanks Again

Bill Young

Obituaries

ELIZABETH S. YOUNG

Elizabeth Saunders Young, 93, of Long Branch, N.J., died Tuesday, Oct. 18, 1994, in Wall Township, N.J.

Mrs. Young was born and raised in North Waterford and graduated from Bridgton Academy in the class of 1921 and Boston University. She was an English teacher in Long Branch Junior High School and after retiring taught home-bound students. She was an active worshiper and deacon at the Long Branch Presbyterian Church.

Her marriage to Joseph Warren Young was the first performed in the North Waterford Congregational Church. Previous marriages were always performed in homes.

Although Mrs. Young left Maine after marrying, she and her husband never missed summering in Bridgton, and in 1951 built a camp in Bryant Pond with their close friends, Mae and Charles Cooper of Buckfield, now deceased.

Mr. Young died in 1991. Surviving is one daughter, Jean Harvey of Point Pleasant, N.J.; three grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren.

The family requested any donations to her memory be sent to the North Waterford Congregational Church Building Fund, North Waterford, ME 04267.

FRANCIS E. REMINGTON JR.

Francis E. Remington Jr., 51, former resident of Andover and living in Cheyenne, Wyo., died in Georgia on Oct. 23, 1994. He was born June 5, 1943, at Rumford Community Hospital, the oldest son of Francis and the late Cecilia Campbell Remington. He graduated from Andover High School in the class of 1961. He moved to Cheyenne, Wyo., where he worked as a tractor-trailer driver.

He is survived by his father, Francis Remington Sr. of Loveland, Colo.; his wife Ginny of Cheyenne, Wyo.; one son and four daughters; four brothers and two sisters; and several nieces and nephews.

ROBERT V. CHAPMAN

Robert V. Chapman, 79, formerly of Bethel, died Thursday, Oct. 27, 1994, at Midcoast Hospital in Brunswick. He was born in Newry on Sept. 2, 1915, the son of Frank P. and Gladys (Spinney) Chapman. He was educated in Bethel schools and worked for a time at Hanover Dowel and then worked as a clerk at a convenience store in Locke Mills. He has most recently lived in Freeport.

He is survived by a sister, Gwendolyn Currier of Oxford; two brothers, Harold Chapman of Lancaster, Penn. and Raymond Chapman of West Bethel; a stepdaughter, Irene Sessions of Bethel; and several nieces and nephews.

There are no funeral services or visiting hours. Interment will be at the Mt. Will Cemetery in Bethel. Arrangements are under the direction of the Greenleaf Funeral Home, Vernon Street, Bethel.

MINNIE PEARL HINES

Mrs. Minnie Pearl Hines, 80, died Friday, Oct. 28, 1994, at the Central Maine Medical Center, Lewiston.

She had resided at the Harris Apartments on Hartford Street, Rumford, since 1979, and had lived most of her life in East Andover.

She was born in Nova Scotia on Jan. 15, 1914, the daughter of Melvin and Hattie (Isneor) White. She attended schools in Andover and had attended the Calvary Congregational Church in South Andover. She was married in Andover on Oct. 17, 1931, to the late James G. Hines, who died in South Paris on Oct. 8, 1984.

Survivors include two sons: James B. Hines of Rumford and Robert N. Hines of Taunton, Mass.; two brothers: Lester White of East Andover and Norman White of Andover; one sister, Mrs. Charlotte

Card of Thanks

My heartfelt thanks to all the friends and relatives, who made my time of being away from home so much easier, with all the lovely cards, letters and good wishes. To the lovely Secret Pal - especially the yellow roses were beautiful

Most Sincerely,

Ey Nickerson

Sennett of North Rumford; four grandchildren; two step-grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Monday, Oct. 31, at the Meader & Son Funeral Home with Rev. Lawrence Shaw officiating. Interment was in Woodlawn Cemetery, Andover.

DOUGLAS W. MCCRODDEN

Douglas W. McCrodden, 46, of Route 35, Sebago Lake, died early Sunday, Oct. 30, 1994, at his home, surrounded by family and friends.

Born in Teaneck, N.J., a son of Howard J. and Kathryn Herrick McCrodden, he was a graduate of the University of California at Berkeley with a degree in architecture. For the past 20 years, he had been a self-employed architectural designer in this area. He also built furniture for his home and for sale. Mr. McCrodden enjoyed gardening, volley ball, and music, especially playing the French horn. He also raised puppies for Guiding Eyes.

Surviving him are his wife, Jane Irish McCrodden, and his daughter, Chanchala Elizabeth McCrodden, both of Sebago Lake; his mother, Kathryn Herrick McCrodden of Berkeley, Calif.; a brother, Brian, of Raleigh, N.C.; an aunt and uncle, Barbara and Norris Brown of Bethel, with whom he lived for a portion of his life; and two nieces.

A memorial service will be held at 1:30 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 5, at his home, where he enjoyed living in the natural setting that he loved so much. Arrangements are by Dolby Funeral Chapel, 434 River Road, Windham. Those desiring, may contribute in his memory to the Gorham Land Trust, P.O. Box 33, Gorham, Me., 04038.
